Back in Washington.

The President at the White House for an Hour.

A SHORT CABINET MEETING.

No Important Business Transacted, but an Informal Understanding Arrived at. The President Then Starts for the Summer Residence of the Postmaster General.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The president and Mrs. Harrison, accompanied by Dr. Scott and Private Secretary Halford, arrived at the White House from Deer Park at 2:45 p. m. The party looked rather weary and dusty. Postmaster General Wanamaker was in waiting and Secretary Proctor was immediately summoned.

There was no regular cabinet meeting, but within his hour's stay at the White House the president managed also to see Secretary Tracy, Attorney General Miller and Assistant Secretary Batchelder, and thus gather the idea of the course of business in most of the departments. No appointments were forthcoming as the result of these interviews. A few minutes before 4 o'clock the party again entered carriages and were driven to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad station, where they took the train for Philadelphia.

The President's Train.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5. The train bearing President Harrison and Postmaster General Wanamaker and party arrived here from Washington at 7:30 yesterday evening. A small but enthusiastic crowd greeted the party at Broad street station, where the train stopped for a few minutes. The party did not leave the car, which was taken to the country home of the postmaster general at Jenkintown, about ten miles from this city, where the president, Governor Beaver, of Pennsylvania, and Governor Green, of New Jersey, will be entertained by Mr. Wanamaker.

In the morning the distinguished party will start in carriages from Mr. Wanamaker's house to the Old Log college, near Hartsville, which was established in 1726, and the anniversary of which is to be celebrated tomorrow.

THE COLUMBIAN.

Another Serious Outbreak at Guayaquil, Georgia.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5. The Times-Democrat's Greenwood, Miss., special says: The most deadly outrage since the beginning of the trouble in the upper part of this county, was perpetrated by George Allen and his squad of about fifteen negroes last night, by the burning of Mr. Jamieson's store at Shady Grove. They went there and asked for powder and shot. Jamieson refused to let them have any and they told him they would either burn his house or kill him. They caught him, set fire to his house, firing off their guns in the meantime and making other demonstrations. Jamieson got away and went to Sunnyside informing the people of what had happened.

About the same time a negro deserter from Allen's band came up and offered to pilot the whites to Allen's camp, at Lone Star Bend, if they would spare him and his two brothers who were among Allen's men. About 200 men at once started for the camp, but it has not been learned whether they succeeded in capturing Allen yet. It now transpires that the negro whom Allen killed last Monday night for refusing to take up arms against the whites was his own brother. Yesterday evening the sheriff's posse got sight of the two negroes who had gone to Cleveland for ammunition. When the negroes jumped from their mules and fled into the canebrake the posse capture mules and 200 Winchester rifle cartridges, ten pounds of buckshot and five pounds of powder. Further particulars from up the river confirms the statement that the four negro leaders who were killed yesterday were killed by a sheriff's posse while resisting arrest.

A Rescued Crew.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 5. The steamship George W. Elder, which arrived at Port Townsend yesterday from Loring, brought the passengers and crew of the steamer Ancon, which was lost, Aug. 28, in a gale. The Ancon, in getting away from Loring, ran on the rocks in Naha bay at 3 o'clock in the morning. Only a few of the passengers knew of the accident until nearly 4 o'clock, when the boats were lowered and launched. Good order prevailed, and all of the passengers and crew were safely taken ashore. The vessel broke in two, and is a total loss. The passengers were quartered in a cannery and Indian huts, and cared for by the ship's company as well as possible until Sunday, Sept. 1, when the Elder arrived and took them back to Port Townsend.

A Colliery on Fire.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 5. No. 2 colliery on the Delaware and Hudson Railroad company, at Elyphant, Pa., caught fire this morning and it is believed that twenty acres of the inside workings are in the fire. Smoke is pouring in thick clouds from the different slopes and air shafts making it almost impossible for workmen to make any headway in the preparations for flooding the mines. Before the fire can be reached and water turned on 140 feet of solid coal will have to be tunneled so as not to endanger lives of workmen. Three hundred men are thrown out of work by the fire.

Burned to Death.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—The dwelling house of Mr. Beatty, at Lamolt, Montgomery county, Pa., was burned this morning. Mr. Beatty's son Ed., aged 11 years, was burned to death.

OHIO WOOL GROWERS.

They Hold a Convention at the State Fair Grounds, Columbus.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 5.—The wool growers of Ohio held a convention in the Grange hall, at the state fair ground, yesterday. Hon. David Harpster presided. Hon. Columbus Delano addressed the convention, and his resolutions were adopted, that the wool growers of Ohio regret to learn that the manufacturers have undertaken to determine the rates of duty on both wool and the manufacturers thereof, without reference to the wishes of wool growers, and they are informed that their opinions are not asked unless they will agree to a reduction of rates on second class and carpet wools, as they stand in the senate bill passed at the last session of congress; that the meeting regrets the existence of the "widespread and thoroughly organized movement in New England for free raw material," which seems to mean free trade for the great industries of agriculture for the west and protection for New England manufacturers, but the danger of this cannot coerce us to consent to a reduction of the rates of duties on second class and carpet wools, as fixed in the senate bill at the last session.

ABSENT TWENTY-FIVE YEARS.

Flight From Home in His Boyhood, Returns to Discover that All Are Gone.

SCOTTSBURG, Ind., Sept. 5.—About twenty-five years ago a 10-year-old boy named George Davis, who resided with Isaac Hoagland, then a prominent farmer and doctor living in the southern part of this county, suddenly disappeared. The day he left he had been severely chastised for some offense, and, going to the station at Vienna, fell in company with some soldiers and went with them to Louisville.

From there he went to Cincinnati and thence to Nashville, Tenn. In the course of time he married, and engaged in farming. Some time since he and his wife separated, and he resolved to return to Scott county in search of his relatives, having never heard from them since his flight. On his arrival here he was informed that during his absence his widowed mother had married Asa Broody, and, after his death a few years ago, removed to Kansas, where she now resides. Davis has started anew on his journey to find his mother, who has mourned him as dead for years.

The Nagle Habeas Corpus Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5. In the Nagle habeas corpus case several witnesses testified to having heard Judge Terry threaten to assault both Justice Field and Justice Sawyer. A letter from Attorney General Miller to Marshal Franks, directing proper protection to be given Judges Field and Sawyer, was put in evidence. Marshal Franks testified to having appointed Nagle to accompany Justice Field, and to protect him from assault. Nagle was instructed particularly concerning Terry, and was told that Terry was a dangerous man, and that in case he attempted to assault Field it would be necessary for him (Nagle) to act quickly. Nagle was warned by the Marshal to protect Field at all hazards, and to take no chances.

Union Labor Party Ticket.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 5. The state convention of the Union Labor party was held here yesterday and was attended by one hundred delegates. The platform reaffirms the principles of the Greenback party, free trade, more money and opposition to banks, railroads and trusts. The following state ticket was nominated: Governor, S. B. Downing, Davis county; lieutenant governor, Ezra Brownell, Madison county; superintendent, Mrs. Homed Blanger, Polk county; judge of supreme court, M. H. Jones, Davis county; short term, L. H. Weller, Chickasaw county; railroad commissioner, G. H. Griffith, Cass county.

Drowned Fishermen.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5. John Brochr, a fisherman, and the owner of a fishing smack, Charles E. Bluhm, a 15-year-old boy, and a man named Ed. who was employed by Brochr, were drowned in the lake this afternoon off Thirty-eighth street. The party had taken the Brochr boat shortly before the storm, intending to go to South Chicago. When about a mile and a half from shore a squall blew up and capsized the boat. The occupants were seen to flounder about in the water and then disappear. Up to a late hour their bodies had not been recovered.

The Cronin Cases.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5. Though no jurors were finally accepted in the Cronin case yesterday considerable progress was made. The defense extended nine peremptory challenges, in addition to the four used Saturday, thus exhausting thirteen of Dan. Coughlin's quota, and reducing the number which the defense can exercise from one hundred to eighty-seven. As it is evident that no jury can be obtained until all their peremptory challenges are exhausted by the defense, it is clear that the use of nine yesterday marks much progress.

Soldiers Called Home.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5. Mr. Charles H. Butler, of New York, senior member of the firm of Butler Brothers, of New York and Chicago, died at the hunting lodge of the family in northern Michigan, Sunday morning, Sept. 1, of a complication of kidney troubles, aged 41. His remains were taken to Boston for burial. He was well known to the business men of Boston, where his earlier years were passed, and also at Cleveland, O.

Dock Men Will Win.

They Accept Wharf Owners' Terms to Resume Work.

THE GREAT STRIKE IS ENDED.

A Complete Victory for the Laborers Only a Matter of a Very Short Time—Accident to the Shah of Persia—Other Foreign News.

LONDON, Sept. 5. The first nail has been driven into the coffin of the dock companies by a decision of the strike committee given at 2 o'clock this morning. The wharf owners have expressed willingness to grant every item in the laborers' demands, provided they returned to work at once.

These terms were considered for six hours by the leaders of the men, who agreed to accept, and allow the men employed by wharfingers to return to work today. This will enable the latter to unload and load their cargoes alongside their own wharves and in the river, and pursue business as heretofore.

Naturally shippers will send their goods to the wharves, where immediate handling is assured, in preference to the docks, where the strike will be continued. The inevitable effect of this policy will be that the dock companies, finding the business of their competitors on river front going on as usual, will be forced to submit to the demands of the men, or drive their customers to those who are able to deal with their goods. A complete victory of the laborers is therefore probable.

Allowed to Resume.

LONDON, Sept. 5. The strikers' committee is still in session at this hour, 2 a. m. They have just decided to allow the men now out to resume work on any wharf where six pence is paid for ordinary work; eight pence for overtime, and where the "plus" on piece work is equally divided between the journeymen and the foreman. These are the terms for which the strike was inaugurated, but, notwithstanding the fact that at several of the wharves the strikers might have gone to work at these terms any time during the past ten days, the committee refused to allow any men to resume work until the dock companies had been brought to terms. The consent now given therefor is accepted as a sign of weakening, and the early collapse of the strike is again confidently expected.

Strikers Fired on by the Police.

LONDON, Sept. 5. The police fired upon a crowd of strikers who were obstructing the work of loading steamers, fatally wounding one man.

The Strike Ended in Liverpool.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 5. The strike here is ended, the employers having conceded the advance demanded.

Accident to the Shah.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 5. Further details have been received here of an accident which befell the railway train on which the Shah of Persia was traveling through Russia, homeward bound. It seems that a portion of embankment over which the train was passing suddenly gave way, and seven carriages, including the one in which the shah was seated, were hurled from the rails and precipitated to the foot of the embankment. The shah displayed great presence of mind. Just before his carriage rolled over on its side he jumped from the window and fell into the deep mud, whence he was afterward dragged out by the trainmen. For a moment the shah's danger was extreme.

THE CRUISER CHARLESTON.

She Falls 300 Horse Power Below the Contract Requirements.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—From a report received by the naval bureau of steam engineering it appears that the new cruiser Charleston, built by the Union iron works, of San Francisco, for the government, failed to come up to the contract requirements. The report states that the horse power developed by the ship in her recent official run will probably not be reported above 6,700 by the trial board in their official reports.

During the run of six hours, two hours more than required by the contract, she worked in excellent manner, no heating being perceptible in the machinery. During the extra two hours she worked better than during the required time. This is cited as a proof of her excellent staying powers. Should the figures of the official report coincide with those of the one received by the steam engineering bureau, the contractors will be subjected to a penalty of $30,000, a rate of $100 for each horse power not developed. The boiler performances of the Charleston have been better than those of the Yorktown, calculated proportionately.

Much disappointment is expressed in naval circles at the failure of the vessel. Her contractors made unusual efforts to make her trial trip a success, even going so far as to import hand-picked Welsh coal for use in her furnaces. The vessel was built on the plans of the Naniwakan, a Japanese cruiser of English design, which had about twenty-four trials before she was accepted by the Japanese government.

A SECOND MRS. MAYBRICK.

A Wealthy North Carolina Merchant Said to Have Been Poisoned By His Wife.

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 5. A highly sensational case, something like the Maybrick affair, has just come to light in this state. About six months ago H. W. Morris, a wealthy merchant of Reedsville, N. C., married Miss Cora Seales, a relative of Governor A. M. Scales. Two weeks ago Mrs. Morris persuaded her husband to insure his life for $10,000 for her benefit, and to make a will bequeathing his entire estate to her.

A few days later Mr. Morris and his wife appeared at church, apparently on the best terms, but on Monday morning following Mr. Morris was found dead in his bed. A coroner's jury was summoned and gave a verdict of death from the effects of chloroform. Mrs. Morris had that morning sent her cook to a drug store for chloroform and calomel, and a witness has been discovered who saw her administer the chloroform to her husband.

The body was buried, but the suspicion of the dead man's relatives was aroused and the remains were exhumed and an autopsy ordered. The prevalent suspicion is that Mrs. Morris gave her husband strychnine, under the guise of quinine, and afterward administered chloroform to prevent the rigidity of the muscles which ensues from strychnine poisoning. Mrs. Morris is in jail, bail having been refused.

Searching for Aztec Treasures.

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 5.—Extensive excavations are being made at the suburban town of Coyoacan, at a place lying on the outskirts of the wilderness known as the Pedregal, or Stony Ground, which in former years was noted as a haunt of brigands, and is even now considered as a resort for dangerous characters when pursued by the officers of justice. The object of the excavations, which are being made by private associations, is, it possible, to recover treasures of gold and jewels supposed to be hidden there by Emperor Montezuma at the time of the Spanish conquest.

Was He a Miracle or Not?

QUEBEC, Sept. 5.—A woman of this city, named Seguin, was the subject of a miracle. For nine months she suffered from a disease which deprived her of the use of her legs. She also suffered from cancer in the breast. Sunday she was carried by friends to the shrine of St. Anne, where she assisted at the divine service, received holy communion, and prayed with ardent fervor. Then, venerating the relics of St. Anne, she rose and walked to her seat without the help of any body. The miracle was witnessed by over 2,000 pilgrims.

Battle With Death.

The Terrible Suffering Among Miners at Spring Valley, Ill.

AN EDITOR'S INVESTIGATIONS.

He Gives the Exact Fact of the Situation to the Public for the First Time—The Utmost Destitution in a Community of Five Thousand, Children Especially Suffering, and All Undeserved.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—An appeal to the public, through the press, is made by Henry D. Lloyd, formerly on the editorial staff of one of the Chicago morning papers. Mr. Lloyd has made a personal investigation on his own account of the condition of the Illinois miners. He says:

There is greater need than ever for the starving men, women and children of Spring valley, in this state. There are thousands of sufferers there from want of food, clothing, medicine and sympathy. Most of these sufferers are children, and most of the children little ones. I have just returned from Spring Valley. There, in this great and prosperous state, and in the midst of harvest-laden farms and rich cities, the visitor will see a cemetery of the living.

Instead of the light of health there shines in the eyes of the men and women the phosphorescence of decaying strength, and the children, fatally weakened by want, are dying of diphtheria. There are families where adults and children, grievously sick, are without medical attendance and medicines, because there is no money to pay for them.

The men at Spring Valley are not strikers. They did not lose their work by striking. It was taken away from them. They are the victims of two lockouts. Last Christmas about 1,000 of them were shut out of work by an order closing part of the mine. Their comrades, knowing that the men and their families thus turned into unexpected idleness in the dead of winter would starve, divided their own work with them. For the rest of the winter every miner laid off one day in three in order to give part work to all.

This lasted into April. Then the community, exhausted by this strain of supporting three men and their families on the earnings of two men, received its final blow. April 29, without previous notice of any kind, all the miners were told to take away their tools and leave the mines, which were closed.

In one afternoon their livelihood was taken from them. They had had no thought or plan of striking. They were not even given the chance of working for lower wages. From the day they received this notice to quit until Mr. W. L. Scott, of Erie, made his recent offer to them of a reduction of wages from ninety cents a ton to the equivalent of about fifty-five cents, or less, coupled with the demand that they give up their labor unions, these men have been in involuntary idleness to learn what was to be their fate.

Before the lock-out they earned on the average, according to their own figures, about $30 a month; according to figures given me by an official of the company they earned about $63 a month. If these were their earnings at ninety cents a ton, what would they be at forty-three cents a ton?

The settlement of the strikes elsewhere in the coal region has caused the public to slacken in their contributions of relief in the mistaken belief that the Spring Valley difficulty was included in the agreement. This is an error. The men are still out of work, and the situation at Spring Valley is worse than it has been elsewhere.

There is need of food and clothing of all kinds, especially for the children. Wet weather is coming, to be followed by cold, and they can no longer go barefoot, as they have been doing. All the things which men, women or children want in health or illness, and which are so plentiful in this fortunate city, are now needed at Spring Valley.

That a community of 5,000 persons in the state of Illinois is in the throes of starvation, and has been so for months, is a public scandal and catastrophe which would seem to demand as prompt and thorough action from the government and the people as the Johnstown disaster, and I trust the press and public will use all their influence to request the governor to recognize the emergency by all action within his power.

There must be some funds at his disposal for such an emergency. A personal inspection of this battle of 5,000 with death would, I am convinced, spur the governor to instant action. Whatever the merits of the dispute as to wages, the starving must be fed and the children saved. HENRY D. LLOYD.

Cost of the G. A. R. Encampment.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 5. The encampment council held a meeting Tuesday evening to take an account of stocks. Much to the surprise of everybody the credit side of the ledger is likely to show a balance. The finance committee announced that the guarantee fund of $300,000 would not be drawn on. On the contrary, it was possible that a small balance would be shown. The entire cost of the encampment was about $70,000.

An Anniversary Event.

NASHUA, N. J., Sept. 5. The 150th anniversary of the settlement of the town of South Lyndeboro was celebrated in that town today, and the occasion was one of much interest. WEST VIRGINIA CENTRAL RAILROAD.

A Very Important Railroad Decision Delivered in West Virginia.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 5.—A special from Keyser, W. Va., says: Judge Armstrong has filed his decision in the case of Shaw vs. the West Virginia Central railroad. This case involved the applicability to the West Virginia Central of that part of West Virginia's constitution providing that stockholders have the right to cumulate their votes and give one candidate as many votes as the number of directors multiplied by the number of his shares shall equal.

W. Irving Cross was elected by the cumulation of the stock represented by the Shaw interest. When the election was held he was a stockholder, but the stock standing in his name had not been transferred on the company's books.

Judge Armstrong holds that the cumulative voting applies to the charter of the West Virginia Central, although the original charter antedated the constitution; he also holds that the stock not being transferred on the books, Cross was ineligible as a director. The railroad company set up the connection of Cross with the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, also as a ground of disqualification, but Judge Armstrong holds that such connection does not disqualify him.

MEXICO CATCHING ON.

Heavy Duty to Be Slapped on Cattle After November 1.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. A City of Mexico special to The Times says: The Mexican government has revised Article 1 of its customs tariff, wherein living animals are made free of duty, and has imposed heavy duties on imported cattle, swine, sheep, mules and goats, a measure that cannot fail to have a most disastrous effect on the business of supplying this city with meat from the United States.

This business has already grown to large proportions, and the railway companies have provided special stock refrigerator cars to meet the growing wants of this profitable trade. Now the government steps in and places a duty of ten cents per kilogram on fresh meat, $3 on each beef animal, $2.25 on pigs, $2 each on mules, and thirty-five cents on sheep. The decree goes into effect Nov. 1.

It opened at 78¾ and suddenly dropped to 76¾. This was felt in the remainder of the list and prices reacted fractionally. Northern Pacific common, however, continued strong, and advanced 1¾ per cent. during the first hour. In the hour to noon the market was strong and in some cases advanced to the best of the day.

THURSDAY, - - SEPTEMBER 5.

If there are any good Indians they will have mental reservations to fall back on, now that the white man gets all their lands.

If a man is known by the company he keeps, Mr. Campbell is a protectionist running for Governor on a tariff for revenue platform. But this is politics. Nowadays a man's principles must not overburden him to be a good politician.

Parties who are inclined to rebel against the slowness of justice will find a case in New York to suit their tastes. A pick-pocket by the name of Meyer arrived at the metropolis at nine o'clock Thursday morning. An hour later he stole a watch. A few minutes later he was caught, and by ten the next morning he was beginning a term in the penitentiary. Of course the fellow was poor, otherwise his flight to punishment might have been not so hasty and perhaps not so certain.

The reader has already observed that our advertising columns are being utilized by our live firms, but this paragraph is not meant as any apology therefor. Advertising not only enlivens business but it makes a good paper. To be sure, our regular local news page is crowded, but what news there is gets into the paper anyhow and if the present sheet is inadequate to supply space the Star will enlarge to meet all demands. Already arrangements are being made to give an eight-page edition on Saturday.

Marion is famous for her fine balls and public dances are as frequent as the lightest-footed maiden could wish, yet we haven't an orchestra that is really worthy of the name. An orchestral overture or choice selection by a home orchestra is an unknown thing to a Marion audience. Why is it? Haven't our musicians any pride? Between $500 and a $1000 was paid out to foreign orchestras last season. Isn't that sum sufficient to remunerate local musicians for getting together and practicing until they can play music that is endurable, at least? Let us have an orchestra.

What dizzy, miserable tot one does read in county partisan press in campaign times. The strikes in England are charged to free trade and cited to the democracy, and the coal miners' strikes are furnished as proof of the evils of protection in this country. One famous democratic editorial writer charged Forsaker with causing Dr. Jones' murder at Cincinnati, and ere long, we suppose, Campbell will be held accountable, in these silly papers, for the Cronin murder. There are certainly some things unaffected by politics. If Cleveland had been elected he should have been held responsible for Boone's failure to build the Black Diamond, and some of those wealthy, protected republicans are responsible for Marion's lack of an opera house, because they do not forward us a hundred thousand with which to build it. These are sensible remarks, compared with some we read. What bosh!

N. Y., L. E. and W. Excursion Rates.

On September the 10th and 24th and October 8th, 1889, the N. Y., L. E. and W. railroad will sell round trip tickets at one limited first class fare for the round trip to all points in Arkansas, southern Missouri, beyond and including Butler, Clinton and Springfield, except that tickets shall not be sold to Missouri river points in any case, to Texas, Indian territory, New Mexico, Colorado, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Arizona and Dakota, to Nebraska and Kansas, except Missouri river points; to all points in northwestern Iowa, west of Iowa Falls, Webster City, Wall Lake, Sioux City, Mason City and Sumner, to all points in Minnesota, west of Sleepy Eye, Winnebago City, Olivia, Lake Crystal, Belgrade, Morton, Little Falls and Wilmar. Tickets to be limited thirty days from day of sale.

One of Gibson's Stories.

[Cleveland Press.]

General Gibson, known in every corner of the state, tells the story of a lean white Alabaman coming to him where his forces were camped during the war and saying that everything had been stolen from him except an old hen that was setting on seven eggs, and very likely she was the only hen left in the State. Gibson issued a special order that the hen should be protected. A year ago he was down there looking over old camp grounds, and, to his surprise and pleasure, every chicken he met saluted him and did everything but tell him that they had fought under him. "Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war."

Rather a Disappointment.

"Around the World in Eighty Days" did not fulfill the anticipations of the audience that was at Music Hall on Wednesday night. The play itself is attractive and novel, but its production was rather tedious and not so smooth as it might have been. The ballet corps was small and appeared but once, and the play lacked the music and mountings that make it so pleasing when these necessary adjuncts are with it. Some of the characters were well presented and they pleased, but full expectations were not realized.

The raised floor is an improvement that meets with much favor.

A NOTABLE EXHIBIT

The Marion County Importing Company's Exhibit of Horses Attracts Much Attention at the State Fair

[Columbus Journal.]

The Marion County Importing company has attracted the attention of everyone on the grounds today, because of the fine-blooded stock which it has on exhibition. Its stables are just north of the track, and are decorated with a handsome banner and flags. This company was organized in 1887, and since that time has made an importation every year of fine Percheron, French draft and English Shire horses of the finest pedigree and blood. Its last importation just arrived at its stables in Marion county about four weeks ago, and it is claimed by prominent horsemen to have been the finest collection ever brought to America. Most of these horses are on exhibition on the grounds, and all should see them on account of their beauty, action and style. There has never been such an exhibition on the Ohio State Fair grounds. Of its eighteen horses on the grounds it has shown eight, and out of the eight premiums offered in the classes they were entered in it captured eight. In every class it has shown it has taken premiums, and has had as high as twenty others in the same class where it has shown. Its stables are at Watkins Brothers', Prospect, Marion county, O., thirty six miles north of Columbus, on the Toledo division of the Columbus, Hocking Valley and Toledo railroad.

Di Cull.

A great many on the sick list.

D. H. Clifton for county auditor on the Republican ticket.

The campaign is fairly on.

Sam Myers is down with typhoid fever.

Dr. Nichols, of Marion, was in town last week.

Dade Clifton is on the sick list.

Match Burdge was at Milwaukee last week.

The Scott Town grand rally the 17th will be a regular Oklahoma.

Quite a number of our people are attending the State Fair.

W. H. Robinson and wife returned to Uniondale, Ind., Friday last.

Several different dates have been published for the Scott Town rally. Sept. 17th is the date.

Mrs. G. W. Stonte has fallen heir to a fortune in West Virginia.

The market for campaign poetry is now open. None but original productions should be offered.

We were in Marion last week. the first time for nine months. She has grown considerable.

Rev. Allison Virden and wife, of Cavour, Dakota, are visiting friends and relatives near here.

Mrs. E. K. Cory returned to Montpelier, Ind., Thursday, accompanied by Mrs. C. S. Cory and children and Ed C. Staunton.

A. C. Brady and J. Herbert are helping to make the new improvements at the Fair grounds, Marion.

Several of our teamsters are at Marion working on the waterworks reservoir, at good pay.

Forsker, Foster, Ryan and Pumphrey at Scott Town Tuesday, Sept. 17th. Bring plenty to eat.

Charley Ross has been very bad the past few days, being affected with piles for some time past. Surgical operation was required, causing painful sickness.

It is possible that DeCliff will get telephone connection with the Ladine wire. The matter is being worked up by Add Bain.

On account of the very hot and dry weather, doctors report an increase of sickness everywhere. Ladine physicians are at one place every day.

Jim Stonte has vacated the Rhoads' residence and W. S. Rhoads and his young bride will move to DeCliff this week.

Our Democratic friends are singing "The Campbells are coming." We say "Let 'em come." When we see one menagerie we see all, so the Show is no new feature in this quarter.

From the way the matter is being worked up, the Scott Town Republican rally Sept. 17th will be a great success if the people turn out as they say they will. Everybody is working hard for it except the Democrats. Sept 4 Jot Sparks.

C and A. Excursion Rates.

On Sept. 10 and 24 and Oct 8, 1889, the Chicago and Atlantic road will sell round trip tickets at one limited first class fare for the round trip, to all points in Arkansas, South ern Missouri, beyond and including Butler, Clinton and Springfield, except that tickets shall not be sold to Missouri River points in any case, to Texas, Indian Territory, New Mexico, Colorado, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Arizona and Dakota, to Nebraska and Kansas, except Missouri River points, to all points in Northwestern Iowa, west of Iowa Falls, Webster City, Wall Lake, Sioux City, Mason City and Sumner; to all points in Minnesota, west of Sleepy Eye, Winnebago City, Olivia, Lake Crystal, Belgrade, Morton, Little Falls and Wilmar. A Poet's Woes.

He wrote some verses,
'Twas to cheer us,
In language that was glowing,
Her dainty grace,
Her lovely face,
Her smile so joy bestowing.

She took her pen
And wrote again,
"I think this much is due you
Though bad your rhymes,
Messpent your times,
I'll be a sister to you."

—Washington Capital.

Happiness and Contentment

Home-Made Wines.

A. Ritzhaupt is prepared to deliver his famous home made wines to any part of Marion. These wines are of his own make, are pure and are highly recommended by physicians for medicinal use. He has Catawba, Concord, Delaware, Elwely and other brands. Give them a trial. Call at his cellar at residence if you desire to select. [B 10]

Farming His College Course.

Speaking of snobbishness, the Listener is glad to have occasion to note a case of old fashioned manly absence of that unpleasant reality. Spending a Sunday recently with a friend in a very delightful summer resort not far away, where a good many pleasant cottages have been built on a cliff commanding a fine view of the summer sea, the Listener happened to be sitting on the veranda with his friend as a milkman's wagon drew up in the street. The milkman, a sturdy young fellow, of pleasant face, dismounted, rang a bell by way of warning to the nerids of the vicinity to get their pitchers ready, and then started around with his cans and his pint measure. As he passed around to the back door of the cottage, the Listener's friend saluted him as one gentleman salutes another. And when the milkman had gone the other said:

"That young man is a member of the class of '90 at Harvard college."

"Indeed?"

"Yes. He is carrying himself through entirely by his own exertions, and he takes this way of helping himself out. I dare say he makes enough money selling milk at a good figure to the people here in the summer time to pay the greater part of his expenses for the remainder of the year at Cambridge."

"Does he water his milk?"

"Not perceptibly. It is very good milk, and I have no doubt he is as honest as the business allows."

There was a young man in the house who belongs to the class below the milkman's in college, and he testified to the excellent standing of the young man at Harvard.

Such an incident is one of a good many which go to prove that Harvard men are by no means all lilly swells. Perhaps there is not nearly so large a proportion of students at Harvard who earn money in the summer time by table waiting at the mountain and seaside resorts as at Dartmouth or Amherst, but there are certainly a good many men there who earn every cent of their college expenses. —Boston Transcript.

A Big Steamer's Twin Screws.

When Capt. Watkins, of the City of Paris, left Queenstown on the 25th of last month and started on a course fifty-nine miles shorter than his famous run—shorter because he ran northward where the world grows smaller and came down over the shoulder of "the great globe we inhelt," taking any possible chance there might be of fogs and ice in crossing the banks of Newfoundland at this season—the engines were put at full speed, and for something over four days they were driven at the average rate of ninety revolutions of the screws per minute. There was a variation from eighty-six to ninety-two revolutions. When the furnaces were opened to be cleaned the intensity of the steam would be diminished for a few minutes and the speed of the screws reduced to eighty-six turns in the minute. It will be noted that the average speed was three revolutions in two seconds, and the screws are twenty feet in diameter. It is astonishing that this velocity can be maintained day and night without a second's waiting and avoid developing excessive and crippling heat.

The fact that thirty men are employed to pour oil upon the bearings and all parts where the friction is severe will perhaps account in part for the phenomena, but certainly only the greatest perfection of material, and the most delicate adaptation of one part to the other, could provide for such a strain without disaster. I doubt whether so startling a test of integrity and absolute exactitude in manufacture can be found in any other machinery. During the late run of the City of Paris the wind was so strong from the north one afternoon as to give the ship a decided list, elevating the larboard screw so that at each turn the blades threw showers of spray with a dazzling rush far behind the vessel. There are four blades in the screw, revolving three times in two seconds—so there were six white surges per second dashed to the winds, and a fine reminder of the snowy rapids of Niagara.—M. Halstead's "On the Bounding Billows."

The New Saltise.

A recent issue of The Farmington Register, of Oregon, contains a letter from Andrew Saltise, the head of the Coeur d'Alene Indians, asking the saloon men not to sell his people liquor. He says if any of them are found drunk in town he would like to have the city marshals arrest them and send word to him, and he will go and get them and put them in his jail. He also talks to the county clerk about estrays, and says his people lose many horses. He closes by saying: "I want to be at peace with all the whites, and would like to have the whites use my people as they use one another." It is but a few years since Saltise rode at the head of the Coeur d'Alene warriors and was a savage chief bent on destroying the whites. Now he rides around the county taking a fatherly interest in his tribe and keeping them straight. He is thrifty and well to do, and rides into town in a comfortable carriage behind a good pair of horses.

New Styles of Postal Cards.

The new postal cards soon to be issued will vary in size. There will be three sizes when the contracts are finally taken up—one a fine, delicate card for ladies' use, much smaller than that now in circulation and of much finer quality. Finely calendered paper will be substituted for the old buff blotting paper. An intermediate card of the same size as the one now in use will be retained, and a new large card will be introduced that can be used for business purposes, and will be large enough to allow a billhead to be printed thereon, besides the other matter.—Washington Cor. Boston Journal.

Theodore Tilton was one of the passengers on the Deadwood coach at Buffalo Bill's Wild West show in Paris the other day, and conveyed the idea to the audience that he was enjoying himself. Mrs. Langtry was also a recent passenger on the vehicle.

What a Physician Says.

J. M. Loose Red Clover Co., Detroit

I cheerfully hand in the following case for publication.

Mrs. S., age 55, cancerous face (call cancer), had tried many physicians, and on presentation to me was a horrible sight to look upon. Nose partly eaten away, deep pits in cheeks, forehead and chin. As a last hope I put her on Loose's Extract Clover Red—large doses internally, and as a local application I used the Solid Extract in plaster form. She improved rapidly from the first week and in four months was entirely well. Now eighteen months since treatment, and no signs of return.

JOHN C. SLATER.

Ulceration of the leg. Indolent Ulcer Recovered entirely after three months' treatment with Red Clover Tonic and Solid Extract Dressing. Now one year since treatment and no sign of return.

WALTER W. HUME.

Cancer of Lip and Skin Disease Entirely cured with three months treatment with Red Clover Tonic and Solid Extract Dressing. Now over a year and no sign of return.

H——— T———

Secondary Syphilis was entirely cured by Red Clover Tonic in three months, with none of the after results such as are left by mercury or such cures.

If you have any doubting physicians, they can write to me and I will give them a full history of each case.

DOXSEE'S PURE CLAM JUICE!

A Natural Medicine, an Agreeable, Not a Nauseous Dose.

"Throw physic to the dogs."
—Shakespeare or Bacon?

INVIGORATING and appetizing if taken cold before eating in the morning. It tones up the system, settles a disordered stomach. A gentle, but sure cathartic. If a matrimonial cocktail must be indulged in, it will counteract its bad effects as to stomach and brain. An absolute and sure preventitive of sea sickness. Its components are closely allied to the gastric juices of the stomach.

An Antidote to Intoxicants.

If taken regularly, fresh and cold three times a day, before each meal, it will put the stomach in such a shape that the necessity for stimulants will not be felt, and excessive desire can be toned down to simple moderation. I shall keep Clam Juice constantly on hand to be served HOT, hot or cold, to my customers. Knowing positively from experience that it will do all that is claimed for it above, I will try in every way to promote its use, as it is not my wish to encourage excessive drinking, and I can discourage it by giving away freely the only known antidote I will only be too glad to do so.

I have also for sale Buckingham whisky, old Maryland rye fully matured, seven years old, the best in the country.

It Was Different.

Two men, meeting on a steamboat, fell into an informal conversation. One of them was pale, the other was red.

"I cannot think of life otherwise than a failure," said the pale man. "With me it has been a constant struggle ever since I was a boy, and now that I am growing old, I cannot help but acknowledge that I have thrown myself away."

"I do not share your view," the red man answered. "My life has been useful."

"I cannot say as much," the pale man rejoined. "I have devoted my life to literature, and"—

"Ah, I see," the red man broke in. "It is different with me. I am a baseball player."—Arkansaw Traveler

R. B. Hansen, a thriving man, of Grand Rapids, says: After months of suffering with a very stubborn case of Eczema, or tetter sore on my leg, and consulting and taking treatment from a score or more physicians all over the country, Dr. L. Bocquin, of Lake View, Mich., told me to use Boerhaave's Extract Red Clover. I only used two pounds and extract and bottle four bottles of that extract as directed, and cured well. It was the only thing that the sore needed to heal and I had tried every and anything that had been recommended to me. Dr. Leonard considers it one of the very best remedies as a blood purifier on extant.

Congressman Buchanan Declines.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 5.—The Atlantic Journal yesterday contains a letter from Congressman Buchanan declining the Republicans of Atlantic county for urging his claims for governor, but positively declining the honor. The letter is very emphatic in tone, and removes Judge Buchanan from the gubernatorial contest.

Still on the Inquiry.

New York, Sept. 5.—Mrs. Flack, wife of Sheriff Flack, was before the grand jury over an hour yesterday in regard to the alleged conspiracy by which a divorce was granted to her by Judge Bookstaver, without her application for, or knowledge of, such a petition. The examination will be continued.

A Child Killer.

Another child killed by the use of opiates given in the form of Soothing Syrup. Why mothers give their children such deadly poison is surprising when they can relieve the child of its teething troubles by using Acker's Baby Soother. It contains no Opium or Morphine. Sold by H. C. Holterman & Co.

A CAPT. KIDD STORY.

Mysterious Strangers Carry off Treasures from a Connecticut Graveyard.

Ever since the recent heavy rains worked deep gullies in the old roads in the vicinity of Lordships farm in this township and a number of gold coins of ancient date were found, there has been great excitement over what is supposed to be a clew to Capt. Kidd's buried treasures. Searching parties have been organized and all the old stories relative to the hiding place of the wealth of the bold buccaneer have been revived and have become the chief topic of conversation. The story that the old Johnson vault in the Episcopal burying ground near the village was made the receptacle of vast treasures on the return of Kidd from one of his expeditions seemed to be the most probable, and the strange performances which have taken place there for a few nights back strengthen the belief of the majority of the villagers that a search is being carried on, if really the treasure has not been found and carried away.

A few nights ago a cab was seen to drive up to the gateway of the cemetery about midnight, and two men left it and went into the yard. They returned in about an hour and drove away. No importance was attached to this incident, but when the same thing was repeated the following night, and it became known, the town was all excitement. Rumors of body snatching, and of the discovery of the treasure and its removal by night were flying thick and fast. The cemetery was carefully searched, the old vault being the thing of particular interest. Nothing was discovered to verify the suspicions, and it was determined to form a vigilance committee and lie in wait to solve the mystery.

The next night found twenty-five men waiting for the mysterious cab and its occupants to appear. At about the same hour up it drove, and two men entered the cemetery and were lost to view among the trees.

Not a man among the twenty-five lying concealed in the bushes dared to move, and in a short time the two men, possibly laden down with gold and jewels, emerged from the cemetery, and entered the cab. The driver, who all this time had sat upon the box as motionless as the marble post at the entrance of the cemetery, whipped up his horse, and disappeared in the darkness.

The next night fresh recruits were added to the party, but the cab and its mysterious occupants did not put in an appearance.

A search through the cemetery failed to show any signs of the visit. The rusty fastenings of the old Johnson vault were in the same position as they had been for over 200 years.

There is a strong belief among the older inhabitants that the treasure has actually been found and carried away in the cab.—Stratford (Conn.) Telegram.

Minister Reid's Paris Mansion.

The home of the American minister and Mrs. Reid is one of the most magnificent of the private residences of Paris. It was originally the home of the Countess of Grammont, who was born Mlle. Sabatier. The father of the countess was formerly the French consul general to Egypt, and he had acquired a vast collection of Egyptian curiosities, which he had caused to be arranged in the vast hall of his splendid hotel, which at his death became the property of his daughter. It must be confessed that this hall when our present representative at Paris came to take up his residence in his new abode was anything but cheerful in its aspect. It was adorned with mummies in their cases, with statues of Isis and Osiris in black basalt, and with cabinets filled with old Egyptian bronzes, pottery, etc., larger pieces of bronze being placed on brackets along the walls.

The effect was depressing, not to say funereal. Minister Reid caused all these dusky curiosities to be carefully packed away and has had the walls hung with brocatelle of a crimson ground and figured with a design in deep yellow. Only the marble sphinxes that decorate the balustrade ends of the grand staircase remain to tell of the Egyptology of the builder of the mansion. Opposite the staircase is the door leading to a series of sumptuous drawing rooms. The smaller sized of these and the first of the suite is paneled with Louis XV groups after Boucher. The grand drawing room is paneled and furnished with crimson brocaded satin. The cornice is richly carved and gilt, forming a setting to a painted ceiling representing a cloud flecked sky. In front of the central window stands a life sized statue of Helen of Troy, by an Italian artist. Beyond this apartment is the dining room, where twenty-four persons can be seated at table.—Paris Letter to Philadelphia Telegraph.

An Alabama Negro Killed by a Bear.

Yesterday three negroes—Ned Taylor, Jim Robinson and Joe Sweeny—went squirrel hunting in the swamps of the Warren river, a few miles from Carthage, Ala. In a hollow stump they found two young bears, and attempted to capture them alive. While they were tying one of the cubs the mother suddenly appeared on the scene and attacked Taylor. His gun was knocked out of his hand and the bear seized him around the body. Taylor's companions were so badly frightened that they dropped their guns and fled from the spot. When they returned half an hour later they found Taylor dead and torn to pieces by the teeth and claws of the bear. The cubs were in a tree, but the old bear was lying on the ground writhing in agony. Taylor had gotten out his knife and stabbed the bear repeatedly before his strength gave out. The animal was killed by a shot from Robinson's rifle.—Birmingham Telegram.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

THE ART FLORIST AND WHAT HE DOES FOR SOCIETY IN GOTHAM.

He Appears at First Sight to Be a Sort of Fancy Man, but Acquaintance Shows That He Fills a Valuable Place—A Brief Sketch From Life.

[Special Correspondence.]

New York, Sept. 2.—The increasing complexity of modern life is constantly producing new industries. The latest of these is the trade or profession of the art florist, although the name gives a very incomplete idea of the fact. The art florist, like the old fashioned florist, is the proprietor of hot houses and the other facilities for growing the finest forms of vegetable life. Beyond this he must be a landscape gardener, an art decorator and a scientific horticulturist.

One of the leading members of this new guild is a man of Astoria. In speaking of his vocation he said: I went into this business three years ago. I had been a florist practically all of my life, and I had noticed the growing demand for experts in new and peculiar fields of floriculture. The demand came from the wealthy classes, and as the remuneration was very handsome, I concluded to make it a specialty, which I did. The business is very pleasant, but very trying. My own experience will give a fair notion of its difficulties.

I was sent for on one occasion to see a fernery in Pennsylvania. The owner of the place had built some mounds of rock and bowlders and planted them with ferns, mosses and forest plants. He and his gardener took every care of them, but nearly all the plants withered and died. I examined the place very critically, and was greatly puzzled. I was on the point of giving the matter up, when it occurred to me to study the bowlders of which the rockeries were made. I pulled one out and shattered it with a sledge hammer, and then found that, instead of being stone, it was slag from some furnace in the neighborhood, so full of lime and sulphur as to be a deadly poison to whatever plant grew near it. I remade the mounds, substituting genuine rocks for these furnace products, and there has been no trouble there since.

Another source of trouble and loss, and one that grows daily more and more common, is the poisoning of the atmosphere of conservatories by sewer gas, and especially by ordinary illuminating gas. Such places are almost always lighted by gas, and the pipes are generally so arranged that when they leak the gas escapes into the soil as well as into the air. The latter is bad enough, but the former is ruinous. A very small amount of gas will kill the strongest tree, as everybody knows who lives in a large city. The only safe rule is to have the gas pipes run on the outside of the conservatory, introducing a branch through the side or top, wherever it is desired to locate a burner. Far better still is it to use the electric light, which not only does no harm but actually benefits the plants upon which it falls.

Floral designing is an endless task. Every customer has some hobby which must be obeyed to the letter.

One wishes the most brilliant floral effects and has his garden or grounds laid out with only the brightest colored flowers; another prefers leaf effects, and has everywhere groundbeds of plants with differently colored leaves; a third runs to vines and creepers, and indulges in ivy, wistaria and Virginia creeper upon his buildings and every conceivable vine upon poles, trellises and arbors; a fourth cares only for orchids, and a fifth for rare exotics.

The public is unaware of the vast amounts of money which are annually expended in horticultural channels. It must be up in the millions. I presume that the late Mrs. Morgan spent a million dollars in ten years upon her orchids and exotics. Jay Gould and John E. Ilsey are two royal patrons of the floral world in the same direction. There are many notable collections around New York city.

Jay Gould's summer home at Irvington is probably the most expensive, if it is not the handsomest. He has one newly discovered orchid that is valued at $5,000.

Charles A. Dana owns a garden at Glen Cove which, to my eye, is as near an approach to perfection as human skill can produce. Mrs. S. L. M. Barlow, a neighbor of Mr. Dana's, has a magnificent establishment in this respect. A grapery there is a feature of the place. It is so thick and luxuriant as to almost form a perfect shelter against wind and rain.

Martin B. Brown, the public printer, has a garden and conservatory at Rockaway which are extremely beautiful. The Yonkers residence of the late Samuel J. Tilden is another superb specimen of the florist's art. It is not kept up as it was during the lifetime of the owner, but even today it ranks with the highest. Ex-Mayor William R. Grace has made his property at Great Neck, Long Island, into a very beautiful spot, but has depended more upon landscape gardening and the massing of plants rather than upon floral display.

Vice President Levi P. Morton has a superb place at Rhinebeck. Its prior owner, William Kelly, was a perfect monomaniac upon horticulture, and devoted a good portion of his life and fortune to make the rough farm into an earthly paradise. He more than succeeded in this endeavor, so that when Morton purchased the property he found himself in possession of the most beautiful place in that part of the state. The estate known after George Law and John J. Cisco, on Staten Island, is another charming sample of horticultural science. A very notable display of floriculture is found at John H. Starin's Glen Island. Not only are the flowers of the highest beauty and the greatest variety, but the palms, ferns, cycads and other exotics make up one of the noblest collections in the United States.

Of the suburbs of New York many are notable for their ugliness and utter absence of taste, while others are extremely beautiful. Those in which floral and horticultural art have been largely employed are, in the order of their beauty, Irvington, Rhinebeck, Washington Heights, Orange, Greenwich, Montclair and Rockaway. The taste and tendency toward floral art are largely on the increase, and promise many accessions to the new profession of the art florist.

Children's Beds.

The practice of having the beds made early in the morning almost as soon as their occupants are up is a very bad practice indeed. All the exhalations from the skin during the night are shut in beneath the sheets, and are breathed in again when the little ones are once more put to bed. Let the beds be thoroughly aired each day. Do not heap on great louds of comfortables in the winter, as the weight of them sometimes weakens the sleepers. I myself have gotten up from such a bed feeling sore in every limb just from the weight of the covers; yet I couldn't have done without a single one. If I had, freezing would have been the cost. Use blankets. Two light wool blankets, though apparently thin, will contain more warmth than three or four heavy "comforts" wadded with cotton batting; but as we are at this season trying to keep cool this may not seem quite apropos, so I will more anon.—Exchange.

BEADLE IN CANADA.

He Tells a Lot of Very Interesting Things About the Maritime Provinces.

[Special Correspondence.]

Quebec, Sept. 2.—Late in July I took a fast steamer from Boston to Annapolis, N. S., to try the climate of the maritime provinces during the heated term. The new line of steamers usually make the run in thirty hours or less, and when the weather is fine no voyage could be more delightful than that over the blue waters of Massachusetts bay and the North Atlantic and up the Bay of Fundy. Morning in the last named brought the usual fog of the region, but about 10 a. m. it suddenly lifted and curled up into light and fleecy clouds, which sailed away over the green hills; then all the wild beauty of Fundy's shores stood revealed.

The phenomenon of this bay is the high tide. Moving up the narrow entrance to Annapolis basin while the tide was going out, the steamer struggled and groaned through all her timbers, and with every ounce of steam on gained but slowly against the current; but once inside the water was as placid as that of an inland lake. At the west end of the basin is Digby, at the east end Annapolis; all the shores are dotted with fishing hamlets and neat farm houses, while back of them rises the land, first in gentle swells of meadow, then in more and more abrupt hills, thick set with dark green pines, to the rocky ridges which form the backbone of Nova Scotia on one side and the crest of the narrow peninsula on the other. The sky is now without a cloud, the air cool and bracing; delicate ones among the passengers find overcoats and wraps agreeable, but most are in ecstasies over the delightful coolness, and full of activity.

The tide is at its lowest, and one notes with astonishment that the wharves are from thirty to sixty feet high, that broad arms of the bay extend for miles into the land, and in them only black mud is seen, and that fishing boats, and even good sized schooners, lie far inland on the mud, loading and unloading, at wharves which appear decidedly out of place. But at high tide the craft will float again and the wharves prove none too high. At Annapolis we have to climb by an inclined plank thirty feet to the top of the wharf, and there we find the true registry of the tides. Many books have given accounts of rises of one hundred feet or more; in truth, the highest tides on this famous bay have never exceeded sixty feet, and the average navy be placed at forty.

Among the many interesting phenomena produced by the high tides of Fundy, the most famous is the so-called "Bore," which may be seen in many place, but shows most, perhaps, in the Petitcodiac river of New Brunswick, on which I write and at the city of Moncton. A bore may briefly be defined as a high tide rushing up like a mighty upright wall, and without any preliminary swell, over a low tide going out. The philosophy of it is this: The Bay of Fundy narrows steadily to its eastern end, and so the momentum of the vast volume of incoming tide is constantly intensified and forced through the narrow passages of the connecting inlets as if it were "shot" from the nozzle of a hose or gun. As the entire force of the water in the broad mouth of the Petitcodiac is at once by the water in the narrower pass at the Beam, it must gain in swiftness all that it loses in width, so there is no time for the "tide to turn," as the phrase is; but when the tide is complete, the stream at its flow has only all its channel a bed of mud, the high tide comes rushing in.

Where the river channel is wide the tide volume rushes to something like a swell, but at the Beam, where it is hemmed forward as it eager to force away the rocky banks, and thus raging and subsiding alternately it rushes on till it expends and is lost in the broad basin above Moncton. Just below that city the Petitcodiac bends like a U; the projecting point is bluffy above tide, and at ebb there is very little water running down. To a visitor at that time the scene appears as in the cut. At the wharf large vessels lie on the mud, apparently ten feet above the water level, yet twenty five feet below the wharf, a trifling stream flows down the middle of the channel, and beyond it lies a vast expanse of shiny mud. As one looks across the green point he sees a white foam, and soon the warning shout is raised, "There she comes!"

The next minute it sweeps around the bend, a turbid torrent six feet or more in height, and with a forward slope of but three or four feet, dashing on as if an immense reservoir had broken loose and its contents were flowing down a steep grade and not low flume. At our feet the little stream still ripples gently down, and where it meets the incoming flood it seems to merely glide under it; a few minutes more and the mud flats are covered, the channel is filled from bank to bank, and the torrent is dashing madly against the railroad bridge half a mile above. In an hour the vessels at the wharf are afloat; two hours later one has to climb up to their decks to steal of down. The Petitcodiac is one means a navigable stream, and vessels of 2,000 tons burden come up to Moncton as easily as up the East river to upper New York. Similar phenomena on the Scandinavian coasts are described by Jean Ingelow.

Why is it called the "Bore?" Apparently nobody knows. It has been applied to it from the earliest settlement of the country—that's the only answer any one can give. Perhaps began as the thundering water "bores" its way through the narrow channels, or, as a punster suggests, it is a "bore" to the owner of the light craft caught in it. It certainly is, and something worse than a "bore"—destruction. Not long ago a good sized schooner was caught unprepared, swept up against a railroad bridge and badly wrecked.

Annapolis, where the Boston steamers land their passengers, is a charming little town, and Annapolis valley, through which the railroad bears us toward Halifax, is one of the noted valleys of the world. Both are attractive in the way of local history especial to lone inforest to Americans, for the whole region was settled and improved 166 years ago by "our own united countrymen, the Tories, as the persecuted Rob Sawyer would have said, by the United Empire loyalists," as Nova Scotian historians say. But in their control into what it now is and nobody now cares much, they were an enterprising set of fellows, and their lot was cast in a goodly land, for this is the richest and probably most fertile part of rural Nova Scotia.

The train glides through an ever varying panorama of rural loveliness. Sometimes the bordering hills close in and leave but a narrow vale in a cleft in the Rocky mountains, then they recede and finally disappear, and from the car window we look over a plain or expanse of dark green meadow, tasseled grove and farm house, thrifty orchard and low roofed, far lake village, while everywhere are well kept potato fields, pastures green and red with clover, or fields yellow with heavy headed grain.

LONG LIFE

There is nothing in the world more generally desired than long life, yet the majority of people put off caring for their health—not because they are really careless, but because we live our lives at such a pace we have not time to give the subject sufficient thought until we receive a reminder in the shape of a severe illness.

Then, too, we are constantly bewildered by the various schools of medicine, and the physicians who represent them, and often blunder in our choice of a doctor.

If people only knew that the very best health-keeper, life-preserver, and disease-preventer that has yet been discovered, is summered down into a concentrated and very palatable form in the shape of New Style Pleasant Tasting Vinegar Bitters, they would not hesitate a moment to try it.

But they do not know. How can they know, when so many not only worthless, but positively injurious drugs are constantly flooding the market under various names guises, that the New Style Vinegar Bitters is as bad as any of them?

They do not know, of course, unless they have the courage to try the New Style. It straightens out a tangled-up system in a very short while, and those who buy it once buy it always.

Why don't you try it, reader? It is sent out by a responsible house, and is exactly as represented. It costs but a dollar for a very large bottle. Try it once and you will never be so glad of anything in your life. Your druggist may not have it, but he will order it for you. Be sure it says New Style Pleasant Taste on carton and bottle before you take it. Try it, and you will feel happier than if you had found a gold mine, for it really is a mine—of health.

I have also received a full line of School Suits and Pants, to be sold very low.

Oh, for an Orchestra!

Is Marion to go on forever without some improvement in string music, without an orchestra whose renditions can at least be endured? With the musical talent that is here a superb orchestra might be formed and it would soon prove a profitable organization. Even were the promise of remuneration not what it should be, the pressing need should appeal to the pride of musicians to remove Marion's reputation for orchestral music that sets citizens frantic and strangers crazy when they are dared so that they must endure it.

No enjoyable amusement season can be had without this necessary adjunct, and prevailing music at the hall is putting patrons' nerves up to a tension that may result in suicide
